“We didn’t used to worry about win percentages. If a horse ran bad, we’d say ‘Well, freshen em up a little bit, change it up.’ Racing secretaries want you to run, then you run where you don’t belong and your percentage is no good, then everybody thinks you don’t know what you’re doing. I could never give a horse a race, that was the trouble with me. It always had to be the World Series, every race. That’s the best way to do it, though. These 3-year-olds, get them two-thirds fit, tell the jock not to hit them, learn how to get dirt in their face, best thing in the world for them. They used to run them in the short races, they knew how to get bumped, take dirt in his face, some of these horses get to the Derby and they’ve never had dirt in their face, he’s never been bumped around.”

As Magellan said, it’s all about the trip.

Today’s New York Turf Writers Cup (post time 12:25 so show up early) is all about the trip. And everybody knows their trip and their rivals’ trip. The first six finishers from the Grade 1 A.P. Smithwick return for the Grade 1 Turf Writers.

Three weeks later, five-sixteenths of a mile farther, an extra turn and one hurdle added, the Turf Writers offers a rematch for the 1-2 finishers Makari and Demonstrative and a chance at redemption for Pleasant Woodman, All Together, Staying

On and Italian Wedding who finished 7 ¼ to 11 lengths behind the runaway exacta finishers July 31.

In addition to the first six home in the Smithwick, Barnstorming returns after finishing ninth, Charminster leaps out of a runner-up effort in an optional claimer July 30 and the highly regarded Irish-bred, British-raced For Non Stop makes his major track debut after finishing third in the Grade 1 Iroquois going 3 miles in May.

Makari won five of his last seven starts in England before Merriebelle Stable imported the 7-year-old for an American campaign. No time for jet lag, the 7-year-old won the Smithwick two weeks after arriving. Settling near the back of the 10-horse field, Makari jumped accurately and moved acutely, slipping through on the inside to nail Demonstrative by a nose. Jack Doyle was aboard that day and is aboard again for trainer Elizabeth Voss.

“Just get him settled early, hopefully two and three eighths won’t be a problem, hopefully ride the same race, if we can get a trip as good as the Smithwick...he’s pretty straightforward, once you get him covered up, he settles and travels so well,” Doyle said. “Everybody got a good trip in the Smithwick, there didn’t seem to be too much jostling for position.”

With the Turf Writers running under allowance conditions, Makari picks up eight pounds from the Smithwick.

“That’s a bit of a worry, but he’s a big horse, he should be able to carry the weight. We won’t do anything different. I’ll try to keep an eye on Demonstrative and For Non Stop but I’ll ride my horse the way he likes to be ridden,” Doyle said. “I wanted to be down on the inner, if you have enough horse, you’ll get there. I thought going to the last I was going to win snug enough, but I didn’t jump it as well as Demonstrative but he’s tough, he stuck his head out.”

Doyle rides Makari every day. It's been a good three weeks.

“He’s in fantastic form,” Doyle said. “We are confident, but it’s a tough race. As long as he shows up and runs a good race like the last time, we’ll be happy.”

A nose behind Makari, Demonstrative returns to avenge that loss. Jacqueline Ohrstrom’s 7-year-old scoured Saratoga in 2012, winning the Jonathan Kiser and Turf Writers. The son of Elusive Quality capped the year with last-to-first bombardment in the Colonial Cup. Last year, he picked up where he left off, winning the Iroquois. Then everything went wrong. He lost four in a row, had off-season wind surgery and returned with a poor effort in the Iroquois in May. Training better, Demonstrative strutted around Saratoga before the Smithwick and did everything but earn the big check. Trained by Richard Valentine, Demonstrative showed he’s back to his best form. Robbie Walsh knew it when he nearly bucked him off when climbing on from the mounting block at Valentine’s base in The Plains, Va.

Walsh navigated a sweet trip in the Smithwick, losing the race at the head of the stretch when Makari sidled through on the rail. In the Turf Writers, he'll try to settle just off the pace, put his jumping to good use and then use his late gears to exact revenge on Makari.

“I don’t change much, unless we go quicker and then I’ll be further back,” Walsh said. “The only thing you could think about changing from the Smithwick was turning for home, possibly going to the inside but we talked about not getting his run stopped because we were a little worried that the turn of foot that used to be there might not be there. That’s why I tipped out, while screaming at Gerard (Galligan) to stay in, the other horse was going well enough to get through. I winged the last, if anything he waited a bit for company.”

Doyle, Walsh and every jockey in the race will base all strategy on Pleasant Woodman. He’s the constant. Owned by Virginia Lazenby and Farm D’Allie Racing Stable, Pleasant Woodman knows one way. The 6-year-old son of Woodman has led at the first three calls in his eight most recent races. He’s won three of them and took the field a long way in the Smithwick before succumbing to the late kicks of Makari and Demonstrative. Trained by Doug Fout and ridden by Gerard Galligan, Pleasant Woodman held off All Together, Staying On, Italian Wedding and Barnstorming in the Smithwick. He’ll stretch his stamina another five-sixteenths of a mile in the Turf Writers.

“We’ll put him on the front where he likes to be, we’re not going to fight him, we’ll let him do his thing and try to get him in his routine, his rhythm and hope he stays the extra distance,” Galligan said. “Ideally, two miles is his best thing but if he settles, he’s a tough horse, he’ll battle on and he sure will be trying. He ran a good race in the Smithwick, his jumping was great. I have to be careful to not let anybody up my inside, there will be lads trying.”

Pleasant Woodman stayed 2 ¼ miles up the taxing hill at Iroquois to win the Marcellus Frost Novice Stakes in May.

“You can win races on the front here but you need to dictate the pace and go steady. At the hunt meets, it’s easier to get breathers. Here, it’s flat so he’ll bowl again,” Galligan said. “He does it all himself, I just sit there, he’s very clever, he knows when to give himself breathers and he knows when to open up. Dougie says if he’s pulling you’re going too slow. You just let him rock and roll. He enjoys it, he loves running and jumping. He used to run frantically but he’s almost mastered it, running fast but relaxing.”

Sam Jones settled All Together in the Smithwick and the 9-year-old veteran stayed well to be fourth, beaten 8 ¼ lengths by Makari. A 30-start veteran over hurdles, All Together rated in sixth along the inside, just off Demonstrative for the entire trip in the Smithwick. Owned by Sheila Williams and Andrew Brewster, the son of Danzig (yes, Danzig) posted another consistent effort against the best in the game. Trained by Jack Fisher, All Together finished second to Italian Wedding in last year’s Turf Writers, one of five runner-up efforts since dropping to the $30,000 claiming ranks last summer.

“No excuses, he’ll need to improve a little from that day. The extra few furlongs will help, we get weight from the winner of the Smithwick,” Jones said. “I felt like all he did was just keep galloping once we turned in and the others quickened. The winner and the second horse will be hard to beat, I was happy with the way things went, they just quickened. I dropped him to switch him off and

Risky Rachel seeks repeat of 2012 stakes win for Coronel

BY TOM LAW

Manny Coronel snagged an overnight for today’s races, scanned for the $100,000 Union Avenue Stakes and liked what he didn’t see.

Nowhere on the entries for the $100,000 race for New York-bred fillies and mares did he see the names Willet or La Verdad. He’s sending out 7-5 favorite Risky Rachel and expected to see at least one of the names, maybe even both, so when he didn’t it changed his outlook.

“Those two fillies are amazing; they are the best New York-breds right now,” Coronel said just outside his barn on the corner of the first turn on the Oklahoma. “I was very happy when I saw the entries come out. Very happy.”

Coronel was happy, yes, but definitely not overconfident.

Coronel worked for Frank Martin, Angel Penna Jr. and Jim Bond before going out on his own in 2012, so he knows that Risky Rachel still needs to be at her best in the 6 ½-furlong Union Avenue because there are still five others in the field. The group includes Sunny Desert, who could easily be in the argument for “best New York-breds right now” and the 8-5 second choice.

Fortunately for Coronel and owner Sanford Bacon, who bred the 7-year-old mare out of his consistent multiple stakes winner Dancin Renee, Risky Rachel is a proven commodity at Saratoga. She’s won twice and finished second twice in four starts, including a victory in the 2012 Union Avenue over the aforementioned Ballerina Stakes-bound Willet.

“She likes it here and her better races are always here,” Coronel said, a few yards from the attentive and inquisitive Risky Rachel poking her head out of her stall. “If she wins it will be her second in this stakes. With those two fillies not there I think she can be right there. I don’t know if she’ll be favorite or second choice, but she’ll be there.”

Risky Rachel being back in the Union Avenue is pretty big in itself.

She dominated the 2012 edition, defeating Willet by 3 1/2 lengths for her third win in six starts to that point. She raced next in the 7-furlong Iroquois Stakes at Belmont Park during the Empire Showcase program. The track was sloppy that day and the daughter of Limehouse came out of the race with a tendon issue.

Bacon, who kept half siblings Dancin Renee in training through her 5-year-old season and legendary New York-bred Say Florida Sandy until he was 9, wasn’t in any hurry and put no pressure on Coronel to bring Risky Rachel back quickly. She was off nearly 15 months.

“In December after we got her back from the farm and training, we took X-rays and she was perfect,” Coronel said. “We were at Gulfstream Park. When you’re there you’ve got two choices, run at Gulfstream in some tough races, or go to Tampa.”

Coronel and Bacon decided on Tampa Bay Downs, where Risky Rachel won two small, open-company stakes in as many starts. Risky Rachel hasn’t won since, finishing off the board in the Broadway against state-breds in March at Aqueduct and the My Juliet at Parx in May. She picked her head up a bit when third behind La Verdad and Willet in the Dancin Renee before a good second to Willet in a tough allowance at Saratoga July 30.

“She’s a 7-year-old now, so you’ve got to be smart and pick the right races,” Coronel said. “You’ve got to pick the races where she belongs. It’s not the same as when she was 3 or 4. Now she’s 7, but she’s training very good here. She likes to be here and this looks like a perfect spot.”

See UNION AVENUE page 15
Sunny Desert lands in the same seemingly ideal spot for her first start since the 2012 Saratoga meet.

The now 5-year-old daughter of Wild Desert won an allowance/optional race in her only try at the Spa and then ended her sophomore season with back-to-back stakes wins. Sunny Desert won three of four starts from January to April last year before pulling a muscle and going to the sidelines.

Sunny Desert was transferred from the since retired John Parisella to Bruce Levine last year and she popped a splint on the eve of her fall return and was off again until late March. Sunny Desert, a finalist for champion New York-bred older female honors last year off her three stakes wins, finished a solid third behind La Verdad and Hot Rendezvous in the Broadway.

Linda Rice trains La Verdad, who is entered for Saturday’s Grade 1 Ballerina, sends out two starters Stakes 12 days ago at Finger Lakes and takes on older rivals for the first time. The 3-year-old daughter of Utopia snapped a six-race losing skid in the Niagara.

“It was a short field, nice purse and it was against New York-bred fillies and mares,” Rice said of her reasoning for taking a shot. “At this time of year a 3-year-old filly like her is going to run out of opportunities to run against straight 3-year-olds. She seems to like to be a come-from-behind sprinter and I thought, ‘well, we don’t have that many opportunities left, let’s give it a whirl.’ ”

Vicki’s Dancer is the 6-1 third choice as she switches from the turf to the main track. The 5-year-old Disco Rico mare is 0-for-2 at Saratoga but won a division of the New York Stallions Series going 7 furlongs on the main track last November at Aqueduct for trainer Rudy Rodriguez.

Charlton Baker sends out his Make the Moment, a 4-year-old daughter of Indygo Shiner who was fourth in the Broadway three starts back and fourth in the Willet-Risky Rachel allowance earlier in the meet.

Lynch hopes to stick around town for a bit, especially with a few more runners in the final two weeks of the meet. When he does return to Toronto he can look back at Heart to Heart’s victory over a small but quality field and get the pick-me-up he needs.

What he’ll see is Velazquez ask the son of champion English Channel ever so slightly for some speed leaving the gate as he ran alongside Quick Call Stakes winner Pure Sensation heading into the first turn. Pure Sensation and Jose Lezcano conceded the lead when the quarter-mile was posted in :23.48, Heart to Heart was up by a length and relaxed on the lead.

“We talked about it before the race and I just let him bounce out of [the gate] and see if anyone wants to take the lead,” Velazquez said, adding that Lynch told him to take the lead if he wanted. “That’s the way it worked out and he was rolling the whole way around.”

Heart to Heart was still in front up the backstretch with Pure Sensation and 2-1 favorite Storming Inti chasing. Here’s Johnny got in tight behind Storming Inti and Irad Ortiz Jr. was forced to put on the brakes. Same for Cornelio Velasquez on Mark My Way. The half went up in :47.03 and the other six were left with a lot to do when Heart to Heart zipped around the far turn.

Heart to Heart cut the corner and ran the last quarter-mile in :23.19 – faster than any of his other three quarters – and was home before the furlong marker. Los Borrachos made a belated run from the back of the pack but never seriously threatened to finish second, 2 3/4 lengths in front of Pure Sensation. The final time was 1:33.97, not far off the new course mark of 1:33.25 set by Seek Again.

Bred in Ontario and out of the Silver Deputy mare Ask the Question, Heart to Heart cost owner Terry Hamilton $25,000 at the 2012 CTHS Canadian-bred yearling sale at Woodbine. The bay colt’s distinct heart-shaped star made him easy to name.

“It’s a unique marking isn’t it?” Lynch said. “I always felt like he had a big heart, so when you combine them together he’s heart to heart.”

Heart to Heart showed promise as a 2-year-old for Michael Stidham. The horse raced exclusively on Polytrack in five starts at 2, once at Arlington in his maiden-breaking debut, three times at Woodbine in restricted stakes and once in an off-the-turf allowance at Keeneland.

Lynch took over this winter and started Heart to Heart in a 1-mile allowance on the grass during Keeneland’s spring meet. He won by 6 1/4 lengths gate-to-wire. Since Heart to Heart was bred in Ontario he was eligible for the Canadian Triple Crown, which required a move back to synthetic.

Heart to Heart finished sixth in his prep for the Canadian classics, beaten just 1 ¾ lengths in the 1 1/16-mile Marine Stakes against open company, then flopped when eighth in the 1 ¼-mile Queen’s Plate.

Lynch said he “chased” a little too much trying the colt in that spot and got Heart to Heart back on the grass for his next start.

“He’s probably not a Poly horse, but for a million bucks I’ll give you a million reasons why I tried to get him there,” Lynch said. “It was a lot further than he wants to run. I always felt that after the Keeneland race that is probably exactly what he wants to do, 1 mile on the turf. He’s very quick, he runs the turns very well, so when this race came up I thought it was the perfect spot for him.”

Pressure Producer

Strong Bodie Island holds off Virsito, wins 4th over jumps

When it comes to Bodie Island, trainer Richard Valentine tells jockey Kiaran Norris things like, “Whatever you do, don’t get there too soon. He’s one we want to produce late.” Then came Wednesday, where Bodie Island produced himself too soon and kept on producing.

Racing wide near the front, the 6-year-old made his forward position work, built a big lead on the final turn and hung on late to win by a rapidly diminishing head for owner/breeder The Elkstone Group. The 6-year-old son of Kafwain won for the fourth time over jumps and gave Elkstone its fifth win at the meet. Favorite Virsito finished second with Spy In The Sky third in 3:34.62 for 2 3/8 miles.

Meganisi made the early running, followed by Sal The Barber and You’re The Top. To their outside and just behind, Norris tried to get Bodie Island to settle. He obliged for a bit, but tugged at the reins and surged over his fences. With a circuit remaining, Bodie Island took the lead while racing behind loose horse You’re The Top (who lost Ross Geraghty with a mistake at fence five). Still wide, Bodie Island took a 3-length lead into the second last and applied more pressure.

“He was keen and I wasn’t expecting him to do that,” Norris said. “I let him roll by one or two and he was on the muscle from there. There wasn’t much I could do with him. The loose horse hurt me at first, but he helped me too. Going into the far turn I just decided I’d give them a little bit to do and kick off the turn.”

Bodie Island kicked, then nearly got caught as he popped the last fence and wandered out in deep stretch. The win delighted Valentine, who took over Bodie Island’s training in 2013.

“He’s a cool, cool horse,” said the trainer. “If you watch him move, he’s not the best mover but we love him. He’s an incredibly kind horse. Winning races does improve their heads and to see running and jumping with his ears up, loving it, that’s nice to see. He got to waiting and drifting a little bit and I thought he might get caught. It was scary for a minute.”

When trained by Jonathan Sheppard in August 2012, Bodie Island suffered a heat stroke at Saratoga in 2012 and nearly died. He didn’t run again until May and didn’t win again until November. Donna Freyer at Custom Care Equine in Camden, S.C. helped the Kentucky-bred get past the issue and then Valentine took over. Bodie Island has won three of his last six starts.

“Donna did all the work, she rehabbed him and got to the root of the problem,” Valentine said. “He was not sweating right, we treated him for (neurologic disease) EPM and he came back.”

- Bossy Saratoga didn’t take to Woodbine’s synthetic track and it didn’t take her long to show owner Ivan Dalos he made the right move sending her to Saratoga to race on dirt. The Street Boss filly won her dirt debut when she took the second, a 7-furlong maiden claimer.

“She likes the dirt,” said Tom Morley, who took over the filly’s training from Nicholas Gonzalez. “Very kindly, (Dalos) sent her down here to me to see if we could win a race at Saratoga with her which we’ve managed to do, which is great.”

Bossy Saratoga won by three-quarters of a length over Ridingwiththedevil.

“I’ve only had her for about a month so we’ve got a bit more fine tuning to do,” Morley said. “I’m delighted to get the win on the first out with her.”

— Katie Brush

- Captain Gaughen knocked on the door last year at Saratoga, finishing fourth in an allowance race and third in a small stakes. The 4-year-old Disco Rico gelding got it done Wednesday in the third race, winning a 1-mile allowance/optional for state-breds for his first victory of the season.

“He’s been a nice horse for us,” said trainer Jim Ryerson, who trains the homebred for Patricia Generazio. “He ran a couple of nice races here last year but narrowly got beat.”

Captain Gaughen finished 10th, beaten 9 ¼ lengths, in a similar race here last month.

“He was a little disappointing here earlier this year but he always comes through. He’s a nice horse,” Ryerson said.

Ken McPeek signed off on his first win of the meet with Signature Seven in the sixth.

“I’ve got this buddy of mine in Chicago, when I’m not winning he calls me McIce,” McPeek said. “When I’m winning he calls me McHeat. It was McDue today.”

McPeek was winless with his first 22 starters until Signature Seven. Another member of the winning team celebrated his first win at Saratoga. Art Lux, part of owner of the 3-year-old Zensational colt who races for Magdalena Racing and McPeek, pumped his fist walking down the clubhouse stairs and proclaimed, “I made it to the winner’s circle at Saratoga!”

“Since I was a kid my dream was always to be in that winner circle,” said Lux, who brought his nephew and some friends to the winner’s circle. “I told him, ‘tell your friends if that horse gets there I’m going to be (going crazy).’”

Signature Seven won three of eight starts prior to winning the sixth, a 7-furlong claiming race for $25,000 tags.

“This is his fourth win as a 3-year-old, it’s been a little tricky racing him” McPeek said. “He was at Churchill and we were struggling to find a race, the right distance, the right surface, the right conditions. The race came up as a sub race and we slipped him in there at the last moment.”

Alan Garcia, winning for the second time of the meet, was aboard Signature Seven, who was claimed by Billy Fuccillo and trainer Chris Englehart.

Lux showed some sadness about the claim, but also saw an upside to the situation.

“So now I’m down to two horses which is better for my paycheck,” Lux said before putting his fists up in the air one more time and adding, “I made it.”

Martin Schwartz might have another stakes horse in the tried-and-true pipeline he’s developed with trainer Chad Brown.

Schwartz buys horses in Europe, typically in France, races them and sends them to Brown. Then he waits for the results to roll in.

Stacelita went that route and won the 2011 Eclipse Award for champion turf female. Zagora won the same award in 2012. Could Kenzadargent be next?

It might be a fair question after the French-bred filly won her U.S. debut in a 1-mile allowance/optional race Wednesday on the inner turf.

“Chad’s taken care of a lot of my European horses and acclimated them into the U.S. very well,” Schwartz said. “They seem to do better on the turf until they’re more fully grown and they’re sounder there, so when they come they’re more mature. In the U.S. we have a lot of stakes races for 3-year-old fillies, so there’s a lot of money and you don’t have to run...”

against older horses. That’s why we bring them in the middle of the year.”

Kenzadargent, close in four group stakes appearances, seemed comfortable among her new peers. She won Wednesday’s seventh by 1 length over Fade to Black in 1:35.34.

“She came over to me in terrific shape from the previous trainer,” said Brown, referring to Jean-Claude Rouget. “She’s been training super, but you never know until you get them over here. We thought this was a good spot to get her started. If she comes back in good shape we’ll run her back in a graded stakes from here.”

• Trainer Chris Englehart swayed back and forth in front of the big screen in the clubhouse as he watched Chairman Now win his fourth straight in Wednesday’s finale after a nose-to-nose battle with Bedouin Now to the wire.

Javier Castellano rode the 7-year-old Tiznow to victory in the claiming race, just as he did nine days ago in a similar race at Saratoga. Chairman Now’s previous two wins came at Finger Lakes.

“I give a lot of credit to that rider, both of the races up here he gave him super rides,” Englehart said. “That made the difference to me.”

Chairman Now won for the 10th time in his 38th career start.

“The horse was gutsy today,” Englehart said. “(Bedouin Now) come up on the outside of him and he kept running.”

Chairman Now was not claimed out of the race and will get a little rest, Englehart said.

“I’m not sure he likes that one turn at Belmont,” he said. “He seems to be better going two turns, but we will see. I’m not sure yet.”

Owner Peter Deutsch likes New York-breds. He likes Elusive Quality as a sire.

Watch a colt like Saratoga Dream break his maiden with ease like he did in Wednesday’s eighth race at Saratoga and it’s easy to understand why.

“I’m a big fan of New York racing and I like to focus my portfolio on New York-breds,” Deutsch said. “I’ve purchased a number of horses over the years by Elusive Quality. I’m a big believer in the bloodlines there. This horse is versatile, has dirt potential, turf potential, and I think he’s a special horse.”

Trained by Christophe Clement, Saratoga Dream won the 5 1/2-furlong turf sprint in his debut by 2 1/4 lengths over Coastal Zip. Bred by Aynsford Holdings, Saratoga Dreamer is out of the Irish River mare St Francis Wood.

“He took to the turf today and clearly buzzed everybody away,” Deutsch said. “It was awesome. We know he’s bred for turf, so we work him on the dirt and then when he gets on the turf he’ll feel like it’s a breeze. The dirt would be a little bit more of a grind, so we tried him first on the turf and we’ll see where we go from here.”

Four wins and $97,500 earned in his second career.

then halfway down the back, he was flat out. Hopefully, it’s a true-run race where they go a gallop and stamina is brought into it.”

Fisher sends out Michael Moran’s Staying On. The Irish-bred 9-year-old dropped to last in the Smithwick before rallying mildly to be fifth, beaten 10 ¾ lengths. In five starts since moving to Fisher’s barn, Staying On has produced two wins and a second against novices and a third and fifth against open stakes horses. Paddy Young, who finished seventh aboard Spy In The Sky in the Smithwick, replaces Jeff Murphy.

“It’s a big ask, he seems to be in good form, he didn’t have a hard race in the Smithwick,” Young said. “If he finishes in the first three, it would be a big run for him. With Pleasant Woodman, you have your scenario, I don’t think he needs to be as far back as he was, I’ll ride him a little bit closer and go from there. The first two were so far clear of the others, if they run their races back again, and there’s no reason to think they wouldn’t, there were no hard-luck stories in the Smithwick. Everybody was there at the second to last, the better ones quickened away and the rest plodded home. He just needs to run faster.”

Jonathan Sheppard, in search of his first steeplechase win at the meet, sends out Italian Wedding and Barnstorming. Italian Wedding upset the Turf Writers last year while part of a loaded Sheppard entry. The 9-year-old son of Alphabet Soup returned to finish third in the Grade 1 Lonesome Glory, eighth in the Grade 1 Grand National and third in the Grade 1 Colonial Cup. This year, he’s winless in three tries, including a sixth in the Smithwick. Paying the price for his victory last year, Italian Wedding carries 154 and gives weight to every horse except for Demonstrative. Bernie Dalton, who guided Italian Wedding to win the 2013 Turf Writers win, returns.

“I’d like to think he’ll improve and be a bit sharper,” Dalton said. “When he’s getting 5, 6, 7 pounds off these horses like he did last year he’s better. Giving weight away, I’m not sure he’s as good. He’s up against it a little bit. My dream trip would be to be able to sit third or fourth and see what happens from there. His best race is when he can stay in there and keep going and going. Last year it looked like he was getting quicker at the end, but it was because they came back to him a little bit.”

Dalton hopes the Smithwick effort, his first since May, propels him forward.

“In the Smithwick, he stayed on well. He’ll be better for that race. It was his first run since May. I rode him in a work on Monday and he felt great and went nicely. It’s hard to tell with these guys going five-eighths, but I was happy with him,” Dalton said. “I hope he’ll step up a little bit and he could get a piece of it. He runs his race and if it’s good enough it’s good enough, the rest is kind of up to how the other horses run. We’ll see.”

For Non Stop adds mystery to the recognizable field. Owned by Irv Naylor and trained by Cyril Murphy, the 9-year-old faced classy chasers Sprinter Sacre, Menorah, Cue Card and Sir Des Champs while campaigning in England. Purchased last year, the son of Alderbrook burst on the scene with a 27 1/2-length romp in the Imperial Cup before finishing third in the Iroquois. Ross Geraghty returns.

“I’ll ride him handy like I did in the Iroquois and he’ll handle the rest,” Geraghty said. “I was very happy with the Iroquois, we learned a lot about him. Cyril has taken his time with him and we have a nice fresh horse coming here. He gets in with a lightweight, we’ll see what happens.”

Murphy bolstered his entry with Naylor’s Charminster. The Irish-bred 8-year-old finished second to Virsito in an optional claimer July 30. Before that, he danced in the Lonesome Glory, Grand National, Colonial Cup and National Hunt Cup before taking a year off and returning here. Carol-Ann Sloan returns.

Barnstorming finished ninth in the Smithwick, his first start since falling in April. Owned and trained by Sheppard, the 8-year-old won the Mickey Walsh Novice Stakes last summer and finished second in the Colonial Cup. Willie McCarthy rides for the first time.
Bodie Island wins the first.

We’re well past the halfway point of the meet and even further past the halfway mark of putting this paper out on an almost daily basis.

I was going to wait until later in the meet to do a little experiment, but found myself waiting to read copy and some page proofs Tuesday night and thought there’s no time like the present. It’s something I’d like to call, the words of my life as a writer and editor at The Saratoga Special.

The Google search space in the top right corner of the Firefox browser on the laptop I use at The Special office on Spring Street has gotten a workout.

Whether it’s checking copy, writing copy or simply looking for a phone number to find out how late a spot is staying open or winning a bar bet without being in a bar, there’s a wide array of words and phrases that have been searched.

Words starting with every letter of the alphabet but Q and V have been searched.

Why there’s no Q or V I’m not sure, but I’ll work on it.

Here’s a sampling:

Alacrity, Aron Wellman, Ambassador Noel Kilkenny.

Told you it was random. How about these?
Big Tuna, Bread Basket, Bow Tie Cinema, best selling U.S. wines. Cut of the jib, Cady Hill, Cajun celebration chant, Camden Training Center.
Dr. Wilfred Thompson, Druthers, Donn Handicap.
Elite Racing Club, Eddie Delahoussaye, electric slide, Eric Guillot food.
Forno Toscano, Farrell Jones, Filimbi Head Maarek, Fox Sports 1.
Gary Jones, Greentree Road, Goldfinger, Green House 17.
Hard Spun Darley, Harry M. Stevens Museum, Horseshoe Inn, Healthy Living Market.
I’m as happy as a pig in slop, Idle Hour Country Club, Indiana Grand, Italian restaurants Saratoga.
Jerry and Ann Moss, Jess Jackson, Jess’s Dream, Joe Gleeson.
Kendall Jackson, Kentucky Oaks points, Kentucky Diagnostic Lab, KTA Vision 20/20.
Lelands auction, Lucky Pulpit stud fee, Little Mike, Leonard Reggio.
Midnight Cry, Mark Casse Best Pal, Magnolia Mountain Bloodstock, Maryland football coach.

Words by Nat Rea, Nolan Murphy, Noonmark, Netflix.
Olivia Saylor, Ochre House Stables, Ommegang, One Caroline.
Parx Racing, Prix de l’Arc de Triomphe, Parkside Eatery, Patricia Generazio.
Rags to Riches Belmont, Regis Farms, Reigh Count, Reiley McDonald Will Take Charge.
Stephens Thoroughbreds, shingles, squirrel, Seek Again Wise Dan.
They’re like strawberries, Terrence McCarthy, The Elkstone Group, Tom McGreevey.
Union Craft Brewery, Unbridled’s Song, Under Armor second quarter earnings, Union College Kentucky.
You can’t touch this, York Road Timonium. Zenyatta.
So there you have it, A to Z (almost) in the world of turf writing and editing. Perhaps I’ll update this list at the end of the meet.
Or better yet, just come up with something that starts with Q or V to incorporate into a story.
Look close the rest of the way. You’ll find it.

Nine jockeys will compete in today’s feature. Nine foreign-born jump jockeys of varying experience and ability aim at the season’s biggest prize, the New York Turf Writers Cup. One is a four-time champion father of three, one is an apprentice, one is a woman amateur. Some have made homes here and are staying for good. Others are simply passing through, a busman’s holiday at America’s best track.

Willie McCarthy struggled for mounts during his first few years here, now he’s in front in the standings. The Irishman opened a big lead in the spring and now feels pressure from former champions Geraghty and Young. McCarthy gallops for Rusty Arnold at Saratoga this summer, Michael Matz the rest of the year. Wednesday morning, Arnold watched McCarthy gallop past, “What a good guy.” I said, “He’s a good rider.” Arnold said, “Every jump jockey I’ve ever known is a good rider.” McCarthy rides longshot Barnstorming today.

Bernie Dalton has notched one Saratoga win this summer with his wife’s horse, Cat Feathers. The meet is made, the year is made, that money doesn’t pass go, it goes straight home. Dalton upset the New York Turf Writers Cup with Italian Wedding last year. This year, he tries again. If he wins, you can be assured Anthony Bonomo and the rest of the Dominic Schettino barn will meet in the cashing lanes. Kieran McLaughlin called Dalton the best eye I’ve ever known is a good rider.” McCarthy rides longshot Barnstorming today.

Wednesday morning, Robbie Walsh caught a break between sets at Graham Motion’s barn on the edge of the main track. Walsh rides his best horse, Demonstrative in the Turf Writers, well, his best afternoon horse. His best morning horse? Take your pick, Sword Dancer winner Main Sequence is near the top. Walsh and Demonstrative upset the Turf Writers in 2012, won the Iroquois in 2013, then lost six straight, but the last one shouldn’t count. In front a stride before the wire and a stride after the wire of the Smithwick, they lost a nose decision to Makari who they face again today.

Carol-Ann Sloan has won at a 40 percent clip this year. An amateur from Ireland, she works for trainer Cyril Murphy in the morning and has produced for him in the afternoon. She might give away style points but that’s all, she’s beaten four-time champion Paddy Young in eight out of nine photos (his count) and can simply ride. In search of her first Saratoga win, she has a chance on Charmminster who rises from the $30,000 claiming ranks.

The reigning champion Paddy Young seeks his fourth win of the meet. Ahead of numerous high-profile flat riders (I won’t mention them) in the standings, Young said his meet was made when he won his first aboard Virsito. He added two more and has crept closer to McCarthy. Young rides Staying On for the first time in the afternoon. The champ at a price.

Sam Jones followed his brethren from England to America. He left after a 3-for-63 slog through the 2013-14 season in England. Arriving this spring, he won three races for leading trainer Jack Fisher and returned for a spell at Saratoga. Winless so far, he grazed his Turf Writers mount All Together Wednesday morning. “I’d sure like to win one,” Jones said.

There is none like the Turf Writers.

Gerard Galligan hosed off saddle towels and polos on the wash rack outside the Annex Wednesday morning. His trainer, Doug Fout, grazed a horse in the shade behind him. Galligan came to America last year, looking for an opportunity after his career had run its course in England. He rides his big horse, Pleasant Woodman, he’ll take them as far as he can.

Ross Geraghty came to America to ride for Tom Voss. That job blew up, Geraghty researched riding bulls before deciding to stick it out. Based in Maryland, he built his business back up and earned a championship in 2012. I critiqued his form over a fence a few weeks ago and Geraghty laughed, “Yeah, I know but I’ve been doing it 20 years. I don’t think I’m going to change.” Wednesday morning, Geraghty finished riding and was about to leave the Annex when Elizabeth Voss asked him to breeze a 3-year-old filly, he said, “sure,” while wishing to do anything else. Geraghty rides For Non Stop in the Turf Writers. He’s confident. He’s always confident.

Jack Doyle, here for the summer, knew “very little” about Saratoga when he arrived. He had heard it was a great place to come to have fun. The British-based jockey said he came here to ride winners. In his first foray in America, Doyle has put up skillful rides aboard Makari in a tear-jerking A.P. Smithwick and Syros in a wire-to-wire allowance win. Doyle will go home this fall, freelance with visions of returning. As for the money, in the 2013-14 season in England, Doyle won 16 races from 196 rides, his horses earned roughly $280,000. If he wins today, his horses will have earned $190,000 in five starts.

McCarthy, Dalton, Walsh, Sloan, Young, Jones, Galligan, Geraghty and Doyle – gladiators in the best Grade 1 steeplechase stakes of the meet.
